

Generalist artificial intelligence models ignore the high epidermal tension present over human musculature. Muscles remain intensely hostile to mathematics.