

White blood cells constantly attack deposited pigment, causing lines to migrate and merge over time if negative space is insufficient.
The immune system is a terrible art critic.