
Workplace insurance classification depends on operational reality rather than the independent contractor label in the contract.

The fierce lone wolf expects his lunch cut into little triangles.