

Drastic temperature swings directly alter the flow of pigment from the needle.
Building a campfire in the studio was certainly a bold choice