

Implant-grade titanium is lightweight and can be anodized to create different colors without affecting safety.

He really should have tethered the paladin to the anvil.