

Metal body jewellery must be polished to a mirror finish to prevent healing cells from growing into surface irregularities.
At least the excessive vanity is medically sound.