

Non-ferromagnetic metals with magnetic susceptibility different from human tissue will dephase nearby protons and produce a dark signal void on the resulting image. The ancient curse of the shadow realm turns out to be a tragus stud.