Bending or shaping nominally non-magnetic austenitic stainless steel alters its crystal structure into ferromagnetic martensite. The custom barbell modification successfully organizes the entire workbench.