

Implant-grade titanium has a volume magnetic susceptibility comparable to human tissue and does not experience significant displacement forces.
True inner peace is simply a matter of selecting the correct alloy.