

A tight-fitting plastic intravenous catheter can be advanced through the piercing tract to act as a temporary non-metallic spacer. The latest medical fashion accessory requires absolutely no needles.