Medications prescribed for severe acne can significantly delay the capacity for cellular recovery.

Motivation alone proves insufficient for cellular regeneration.