

A practitioner cannot determine pharmacological risks solely by examining the surface appearance of tissue.

The crystal ball requires a medical degree.