Lighter pigment retention relies on skin stability and is easily lost during poor healing.
Pastels prefer to remain strictly theoretical.