

The modular concept allows the drive unit and the power operating unit to separate entirely for maintenance. Modular components frequently receive better bedtime routines than the staff.