

Measurement of the cellular epidermis reveals it is significantly thicker in males than in females.
He is immensely proud of his microscopic advantage.