

Alcohol-based hand rubs successfully denature microbial proteins but are physically incapable of penetrating or removing visible soil.
A dollop of gel provides complete spiritual cleansing for the muddiest paws.