

Polytetrafluoroethylene body jewelry features separately threaded ends that rotate freely causing asymmetric decorative elements to drift out of alignment.

The rotating gem requires constant physical contortion to appreciate.