

Flexible polymers undergo permanent viscoelastic creep when subjected to the steady weight of heavy ornaments. Gravity always collects its debts from plastic.