

The High Court ruled that tattoos are permitted if they strictly comply with existing placement regulations.

True artistic freedom occasionally requires a microscope.