

Handling a fresh structural tear with unwashed hands introduces aggressive foreign pathogens into an otherwise sterile mechanical injury.

Unwashed enthusiasm always leaves an incredibly distinctive fingerprint.