

Insertion tapers apply uneven pressure that pushes the inner tissue lining completely outward. Crowbars are only logical solutions if you truly despise doors.