

The dermis is composed of approximately 65 percent water.
Studio hydration policies have officially surpassed the needs of the average houseplant.