

0.02

Almost imperceptible.

Perfect.

The stratum corneum has a thickness in the order of 0.02 mm at rarely loaded body locations.

Precision engineering on a microscopic scale rarely gets the appreciation it deserves.