

Shorter stroke lengths are purposefully designed for balanced fine linework and smooth shading.
Sweeping the floor with a toothbrush builds character but ruins the afternoon.