

Professional users relying on derogated polymer products must submit detailed yearly reports quantifying their environmental emissions.
My existential dread is now fully itemised for the regulatory authorities.