Modern needle cartridges are equipped with internal protective membranes that prevent the backflow of ink and bodily fluids into the machine grip.

The studio umbrella budget was substantially reduced following the equipment upgrade.