Studio furnishings wrapped in processed leather may contain trace amounts of tanning metals such as chromium.

The artist's profound suspicion of the waiting room sofa was technically justified.