

Replacing deeply established pigments with newer alternatives means the regulated inks have a shorter history of long-term safety data.

Novelty is just history waiting to happen.