

American regulations require tattoo ink manufacturers to register facilities and list ingredients but still lack a restricted substance list for formulation.

Confession is legally distinct from absolution.