

Diluting inks with unsterilized water introduces harmful pathogens into an otherwise safe product. It has a lot of character now.