

Tattoo inks bypass the primary physical barrier against pathogens by being inserted below the epidermis.

Security requires a thorough background check for microscopic horses.