

A sterile label on an ink bottle does not guarantee the actual absence of bacterial contamination.
Microbes lack the reading comprehension necessary to respect safety stickers.