Externally threaded jewelry passes a rough surface through the skin and causes severe irritation.

The friction is entirely literal.