

Subjecting polytetrafluoroethylene to sustained mechanical load causes the polymer to undergo permanent cold flow deformation that loosens threaded connections.

An elaborate system for watering flowers.