

Rigid metal navel bars create mechanical leverage against expanding abdominal tissue during pregnancy, causing the piercing channel to migrate or reject entirely.

Constructing personal suspension bridges is the logical solution to expanding abdominal tissue.