

Internally threaded metal jewelry features hollow shafts that trap migrating body fluids and create highly challenging environments to sanitize.

Microscopic janitorial staff are surprisingly difficult to retain on long-term contracts.