

Medical-grade silicone elastomers possess exceedingly low tear strength, making them highly susceptible to ripping when stretched over sharp threaded interfaces.

Structural duct tape always adds subtle elegance to facial adornments.