Medical-grade silicone has a low tear strength of 25 to 45 kN/m making it unsuitable for threaded designs.

A monumental tragedy in the first degree of tension.