

Gold-plated and gold-vermeil jewelry quickly degrades and flakes inside the body, exposing the healing wound to highly reactive base metals. A thin disguise always cracks under pressure.