

Microscopic scratches, burrs, and residual polishing compounds on jewelry surfaces harbor dangerous bacteria and irritate healing tissue. Storing abrasive grit on your personal ornaments is an unconventional approach to facial exfoliation.