

Titanium anodisation changes the metal surface to create iridescent colours without using paints or dyes.
The best painters use electricity instead of a canvas.