

Surgical steel contains trace nickel that triggers immune responses, while certified implant titanium contains none.

Good thing I wore the heavy duty protective gear.