

Externally threaded jewelry features exposed ridges that scrape and tear tissue during insertion.
It makes a terrible accessory but a fantastic carpentry tool.