

Mixing different metals creates galvanic couples that accelerate corrosion.
The toaster works perfectly but the bread tastes quite alarming.