Connecting dissimilar metals in a healing piercing creates a galvanic couple that accelerates corrosive ion release.

Incompatible relationships always end in accelerated decay.