

A cartoon illustration of a large, grey pipe with a face, eyes, and a wide smile. It is spraying a powerful jet of blue water towards the right. A character with a round body, wearing sunglasses and holding a brown umbrella, is being hit by the water. The character is sitting on a ledge and looking towards the pipe. The water is splashing everywhere, creating many droplets and waves. The background is a simple greyish-brown.

Deploying the plunger!

More saline!

Biofilms can tolerate antimicrobial concentrations up to 1,000 times higher.
The dynamite approach remains tragically ineffective