

Externally threaded jewelry drags rough screw edges directly through delicate healing tissue.
Building microscopic roadways requires heavier construction equipment.