

Healing tissue grows into the microscopic irregularities of unpolished jewelry and tears when the jewelry shifts.

Achieving a blinding glare solves all friction problems.