

The thin coating on plated jewelry eventually wears off and exposes the piercing to reactive base metals.
Meticulous repainting schedules keep the deception totally flawless.