

Internally threaded hollow metal shafts can trap migrating body fluids in spaces that are difficult to clean.
The deepest mysteries are usually just terrible hygiene.